

Providing 500 children from poor families in
Imo state with one academic year primary school kit

Transforming Primary Education

Where Others See Poverty, WE SEE POTENTIAL

"In many rural communities in Imo State, children wake up each morning with dreams as big as the sky, but no books to write them in."

Across Imo State, hundreds of children are bursting with potential—but poverty is holding them back. They want to go to school. They want to learn. But they lack the basics: no notebooks, no pens, no shoes, no school bags.

While education is said to be free, the reality is harsh. Free tuition means little when a child can't afford a pencil.

Instead of classrooms, many of these children are on the streets—hawking sachet water, fruits, or groundnuts just to survive. Their dreams are being traded for daily hustle. Their futures are slipping away.

We refuse to let that happen.

This Is More Than a Charity Drive. It's a Rescue Mission

The Back to School Kit Project 1.0 by C-Edu is stepping in where the system has failed—providing 500 children from poor families in Imo State with the essential tools they need to return to school and reclaim their dreams.

What's in a Kit?

Each kit is thoughtfully packed with love and the essentials to support one primary school child for a full academic year. It includes:

- 40 exercise books
- 10 pens and 10 pencils
- A mathematical set
- A durable school bag
- A pair of sandals or shoes
- A water bottle
- A pack of crayons (for younger kids)
- Hygiene items and face masks

Cost per kit: $46 (₦70,000)

To a child, it's everything.

Why we are doing this

Education is the most powerful tool we can give a child. It breaks the cycle of poverty. It builds confidence. It opens doors. But without support, and the tools to learn, children lose motivation, confidence, and the opportunity to dream.

We've seen it firsthand: children eager to learn but held back by poverty and neglect.

That's why we're stepping in—and we're inviting you to join us.
